The Salk Institute's Discover program is a unique opportunity designed to identify exceptional postdoctoral talent and foster a collaborative and welcoming community for aspiring scientists.

During the symposium, future postdoctoral candidates have the chance to present their research, engage with other trainees, and participate in various sessions. One of the key components of the program is the opportunity to network with potential faculty advisors, facilitating connections that could lead to mentor-mentee pairings across disciplines—a rare and valuable aspect of the Discover program.

The Discover program will consist of a three-day program from July 15-17, 2026.

Application deadline: March 1, 2026.
